

My observations and version of events

While watching tv report and regarding the fact of very difficult situation of the accused young girl, doubts came to me, and I would like to share them. So

1. The rule of presumption of innocence wasn't applied to the Accused, and evidence are circumstantial. There is absolutely no evidence, that the Accused deliberately committed a murder.
2. One of the arguments of Irish police is an information, that the Accused was preparing to „evacuate” while still on the land, because she had her window open, which would supposedly prove premeditation. I disagree with this argument, because electrical systems in sinking cars still work until loss of electricity in the battery. Direct current is not conducted by water and certainly the lightbulbs and electric motors work until fully submerged, which means that they could work under water for several minutes. In my opinion you can open a window in submerged car, while door can not be opened due to large pressure difference.
3. Alleged fact, that the Accused knew that her passenger could not swim, and also that despite of snowing she was dressed lightly – is also only an presumption. Mr Csaba was working on cruise ships. One of the elements of crew's training is the necessity for ability to swim. In Hungarian elementary schools there are also lessons in swimming. Given the fact of multiple swimming pools and the popularity of swimming in Hungary it is unlikely for the Hungarian citizen to not to be able to swim at a basic level.

My version of events:

The video doesn't show that the relations between the Accused and Csaba were not cordial. It would seem that this wasn't rejected love. According to my understanding, the situation was caused by Csabas great jeallousy. For some reason (maybe to prove something, and maybe because of something else) Martha spent the night with a strange man. That caused violent reaction from Csaba. Please have in mind, that we are dealing with young people, who can't yet fully control their emotions. Csaba got angry, Martha wanted to calm the situation down, we don't know it for sure if both of them were completely sober. There was a quarrel, crying, mutual accusations. Maybe because of this tension Martha didn't watch the road but Csaba, who saw the obstacle in the last moment, and pulled the handbrake. Sadly this didn't stop the car. It can not be said that Martha didn't deprive Csaba of life. But it also can not be said, that she did it purposefully and with premeditation. It is possible, that Martha, fearing of the judgement from the closest ones, does not present true version of her relation with Csaba.

Andrzej Jaworski